1. Accounts of Star Chamber Dinners, 1593-4.

At the close of the day's work in the Court of Star Chamber, the judges and clerk of the court and, on some occasions, the solicitor and attorney-general, dined at the public expense in the adjoining dining-room commonly called the Inner Star Chamber. This custom dated at least from the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII. Among the Lansdowne collections in the British Museum are a number of manuscripts which throw light on the menus and expenses of these repasts and give some idea of what was regarded as a good dinner in the sixteenth century. Although at different times the Court of Star Chamber sat on different days of the week until, in the reign of Elizabeth, Wednesday and Friday became the customary Star Chamber days, Friday seems always to have been a favorite day, and in glancing over the elaborate bills of fare of some of the "fishdays" a suspicion arises that a weakness on the part of the "Lords of the Star Chamber" for the products of the sea may have had something to do with the determination of the court days.

Lansdowne MS. 1, Art. 49, is an account of the expenses of seventeen Star Chamber dinners "before Wolsey was Cardinal, 1509," to which is affixed, among other signatures, that of Wolsey as Bishop of Durham. The total cost of these dinners was £35 os. 5d. In Lansdowne MS. 69, Art. 6, is preserved "A note of the chardges of dynners of a fleshday and a dynner on a fishday in the Starre chamber" in the years 10, 13, 14, 15, 24, 25, 26, 29, 30 and 33 Henry VIII. The least expensive "fleshday" dinner, that of Thursday, July 4, 30 Henry VIII., cost 30s. 7d., but on Monday, July 14, 14 Henry VIII., the expenses rose to 76s. 4d., and on Monday, May 4, 26 Henry VIII., when the ambassadors of Scotland were guests of the Lords, the cost of the dinner was £4 11s. 8d. The least expensive "fishday" dinner cost 43s. and the most expensive, that of January 26, 33 Henry VIII, cost 79s.

In Lansdowne MS. 58, Art. 60, will be found the itemized accounts of a "fleshe dinner" and a "fish daie" in February 1588, together with an estimate of the total expense of the Star Chamber dinners of the year. The six dinners of "Candelmas Terme" cost £103 13s. 6d; the eight dinners of Easter Term cost £138 4s. 8d.; the six dinners of Midsummer Term cost £103 13s. 6d. and the sixteen dinners of Michaelmas Term cost £276 9s. 4d.—making a total expense of £622 1s.

Lansdowne MS. 59, Art. 41, contains itemized accounts of six Star Chamber dinners in 1588 and 1589, the most expensive of which cost £21 9s. 11d., the least expensive £15 8s. 10d.

The economical Lord Burghley seems to have been disturbed by the growing extravagance of these dinners. On one of the leaves of Lansdowne MS. 1, Art. 44, are some notes in his own handwriting of the cost of the Star Chamber dinners of 1559, 1579, and 1590. According to these notes "the ordinary chardgs of a dynner" in 1559 were £4 10s. or £5 9s., while in 1579 they were £8 or £10, and in 1590 £17 or £18. The total cost of the dinners of 1590 was £1130—enough to alarm any Lord Treasurer.

All of the manuscripts just quoted are of interest, but of still greater interest, because the accounts it contains are more minutely and carefully made out, is additional MS. 32117 D., which is here published entire. The investigations of Burghley, whose signature, together with that of the Lord Keeper Puckering, appears at the end of the manuscript, may be responsible for the extreme minuteness of these accounts, and it is worthy of notice that the most expensive of these dinners cost £15 12s. 10d., which is a little less than the average cost of the dinners of 1590. It may be that Burghley put an end to the Star Chamber dinners altogether, for Hudson, in his Treatise on the Court of Star Chamber, written during the reign of James I., says that the custom of dining in the court was suspended for a time. "Yet surely," he adds, "it was happily renewed: it being a means of dispatch of much business, which, for the sparing of little money, was disappointed."

2. Letters of Bancroft and Buchanan on the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, 1849, 1850.

The letters printed below are taken from the voluminous papers and correspondence of the late Hon. Edmund Burke, of New Hampshire. Mr. Burke was a native of Vermont, but at the age of twenty-one removed to New Hampshire, in which state he held his residence until his death in 1882.

A lawyer by profession, he was from the days of Gen. Jackson's presidency down to Mr. Buchanan's administration, inclusive, among the most notable of Democratic politicians and ablest of political writers in New England.

He first made his mark as editor of the Argus newspaper, published in Claremont, New Hampshire, in 1833. The next year, removing to the adjoining town of Newport, he consolidated the Argus with the Spectator published in that town, the consolidated
